RESPONSE TO FINAL REJECTION

This is in response to the Final Rejection mailed May 18, 2005.

REMARKS

Reconsideration of this application as amended is respectfully requested.

This invention is in a medication administration system, which provides more flexibility and permits a doctor to prescribe a relatively extensive drug regimen.

Flexibility is obtained by providing a date and time for taking each medication and providing a reminder at the time each medication is to be taken. The system is not limited to a given number of medications or to a number of medication times.

Ailments and conditions are being treated today with a combination of drugs that must be taken at prescribed times to improve results and to reduce side effects.
